DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: In the first line of part (e) of the claim, "the fractionation tower" should be changed to --a fractionation tower--. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-7 and 16-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lee et al in view of Sweet.

Lee et al discloses applicants' basic inventive concept, a hydrocarbon separation system which splits the cooled feed and feeds an absorber column 82 with the overhead from the absorber being cooled against a fractionation tower overhead to produce a feed for the fractionation tower, substantially as claimed with the exception of feeding the top of the absorber column with the cooled liquid portion of the separated feed and the bottom with the cooled vapor from the feed. Sweet shows this feature to be old in the hydrocarbon processing art. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicants' invention from the teaching of Sweet to modify the hydrocarbon separation process of Lee et al by feeding the top of the absorber with cooled liquid and the bottom of the absorber with cooled vapor to increase the mixing in the absorber (by liquid falling through raising vapor) to improve the quality of the separation products. In regard to claims 4 and 19, the separation efficiencies from processes which are seen to be taught by the art, are seen as inherent to the processes. In regard to claim 5, 74 and 76 are expansion valves at the entrance to the fractionation column. In regard to claim 6, the placement of a feed at a lower point in the tower is seen as obvious design choice for an ordinary practitioner.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 8-15 are allowed.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Applicant's earlier applications are cited as they are seen as the closest prior art. They however, claim patentably distinct subject matter.
